

A Message from our Founding Fathers

"They're experience has been our greatest teacher."

Ronald Reagan said, "Government exists to protect us from each other. Where government has gone beyond its limits is in deciding to protect us from ourselves." He also warned, "Freedom is never more than one generation away from extinctions."

If our founding fathers could talk, there's little doubt they'd consider Obamacare a government overreach and a symptom of a more serious national crises than a simple gas pain or hick-up, punctuating a moment in our history. They'd consider Obamacare more than a wrong turn toward Socialism, or just another government run disaster. They'd consider it a setback for our democracy, a flaw in our nation's character, and a threat to our freedom and independence for generations to come.

If they could talk, they'd alert us to a fork in the road we're going to have to take, recommending we either bend right and repeal the law, take control over our healthcare, reengineer our health insurance, and free ourselves from the clutches of government rule. Or, be forced deeper and deeper in debt and increasing more subservient to a larger and more intrusive federal government.

They'd remind us that we came to America in search of religious freedom, the right to chart our own destiny, not to mention freedom from taxation without trustworthy representation.

They'd be more than disappointed to learn we're now forcing Christians to fund abortions, we're no longer allowed to buy or sell the health insurance we prefer, and we're sending elected officials to Washington, who are willing to pass legislation they haven't read. Then, once passed and reelected, impose the largest tax increase in US history.

They'd remind us our search for quality healthcare and "cost effective/affordable" health insurance started long before the first pilgrim shot himself in the foot, first blacksmith burned his hand on a forge, or first cook poisoned settlers at Plymouth Rock. They'd remind us our search started well before the American Revolution, during the time when the British government controlled our healthcare, doled out what care they chose to provide, imposed taxes we couldn't afford to pay, and to add insult to injury (pun intended), invaded our privacy, dominated our lives, violated our trust, and inflicted fines, penalties, and punishment on anyone who dared to resist, or refused to be lured by the false promises of socialism. Lured back to a life of mediocrity, government handouts, and service to the King.

Our founding fathers would caution us that socialism sneaks up on all societies willing to live off government welfare, subsidies, bailouts, and bribes. They'd warn us that history does repeat itself. They'd tell us, if we have any doubts, we need only consider the dire state of our union, our weakening national economy, and the pain, let alone the shame, Obamacare has brought to the shores of America.

They'd tell us to look back, learn from our mistakes, and remember the price we've paid for our freedom and independence. While they'd encourage us to get along, they'd caution us not to bury our heads in the sand just to keep the peace. We'd be asked to pray harder, forgive more often, and always trust in our God!

General Washington would once again remind us, "It's impossible to rightly govern a nation without God and the Bible close at hand." He'd call us to arms and caution us not to shoot-to-kill those with whom we disagree, for once the reality of Obamacare hits home, we'll be once again fighting for our freedom and independence. He'd remind us to adhere to the values on which our country has been built, to always seek and hold the highest moral and ethical ground, keep our eyes wide open, ears to the ground, and never again allow ourselves to be deceived by political rhetoric or the false promises of socialism.

Veterans from our past would tell us to always be brave in battle, for battles are not won by those who abandon their comrades, lie to save face, lay down our arms to keep the peace, or retreat from battles before they're won.

If our founding fathers could talk, they'd boast, not apologize for being fearfully independent, brave in battle and willing to fight and die to preserve our constitution while defending our right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Obamacare is, without a doubt, a symptom of a more serious national crisis. We fought the American revolution to free ourselves from the British monarchy, and two world wars to free ourselves from Nazis aggression, Communists domination, the overreach of Fascists, and the advocates of Socialism, Stalinism, Leninism, and Marxism. While it takes only the common sense passed down through generations to recognize the false promises of socialized medicine, it takes American' knowhow, ingenuity, and independence to deliver cost effective healthcare and affordable health insurance for every US citizen from the moment they're conceived until their natural death.

It's time we step up to the plate, reclaim our freedom, and return our country to quality home-rule healthcare and affordable health insurance.
